Critical Points in the Wheat Situation

Wheat growers must take a world-wide view of crop prospects if their decisions as to when to sell are to be wisely made, says the Sears Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. The domestic price of wheat probably is more strongly influenced by crop conditions in distant parts of the world than it is true of any other important farm product.

Strength in wheat prices during the spring has been due to special developments in all important wheat countries. Drought prevailed over the hard wheat sections of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Excessive rains in Canada delayed spring wheat planting operations and prevented seeding a full acreage. In Argentina and Australia, where planting fall wheat was taking place, the weather was unfavorable. Some of the countries of Europe, including Russia, reported that the season was cold and backward. Final estimates on the 1927 crop in India indicated that little wheat for export from that country. The remainder of the 1923 crop was passing into consumption at an unexpectedly high rate, suggesting only a moderate carryover.

In recent years, the United States has produced an average of 150 million bushels of wheat, of which approximately 22 per cent, or 33 million bushels, had to be sold abroad.

country furnished only about one-fourth of the wheat required by importing countries. The balance came chiefly from the United States, which exported 285 million bushels and imported 210 million bushels and Australia, which produced 135 million bushels and exported 90 million bushels. Small amounts were exported from Russia, the Balkan countries of Hungary, Yugoslavia, Rumania and Bulgaria, and from India. This wheat is shipped principally to central and western Europe. The United Kingdom, Italy, France and Belgium are the leading importers. Oriental countries also import some wheat.

The world price level for wheat is determined by the relation between the surplus available in the exporting countries and the needs of importing countries. Since the presence of a surplus keeps domestic prices in line with world prices, the wheat producer in the United States is almost as much concerned in the yield in Australia as in the size of the domestic crop.

Now production of wheat averages about 3,700,000,000 bushels. A fluctuation of 150 to 200 million bushels either way means the difference between a year of high prices and a year of low prices.

COUNTY SCHOOL NEWS

We find that many of our rural school desire to open earlier this fall than usual on account of the short crop of cotton, which will be all picked before the last of September, provided weather conditions continue favorable. It seems that where the children are to be idle that to open the 19th of September would be better than to wait to the first Monday in October as we have been doing for several years.

The Portia high school is to open the 12th of September this year. Portia is in the heart of the cotton belt of the county and so many of the children who attend Portia will have to gather the cotton crop, to begin earlier would be a disadvantage to many of the students, as but few are free to begin before the cotton has been gathered.

Trustees should secure truck operators ahead of time for the opening of school. As much time now left for this important arrangement. We do not anticipate any trouble in securing drivers. A little cash coming in after the cotton has all been sold will help to live on a cash basis, and will count big for most of us when hard times come, as they are sure to do when our money crops have been all gathered and sold.

The Middle Ground school district is ripe for expansion, and as soon as territory adjacent becomes willing to join in the Middle Ground school district, a bigger and more modern plant will be constructed and equipped to enable those progressive citizens to have as good school as is operated in the rural sections of this county. For many years Middle Ground has been one of the leading schools of the county and they do not expect to lag in matters educational.

The Warnock Junior high school will open the 19th of September and will operate for eight months this term. The Warnock will be used as a training school for the Georgia Normal school as it has been heretofore in addition to the model school on the Normal campus. The model school of the Normal will be in the hands of the best trained teachers available.

Patrons, for the sake of the little folk, let us enter them the first day of school this year and keep them there during the entire term. No child can make normal progress that does not attend the whole term of school. You know you do not want your children to be behind, and unless you give them an equal opportunity, that very thing will happen. The best that can be done is to operate short terms, and unless children attend the schools regularly, they will be seriously handicapped when they reach maturity. It pays in every way to give children school advantages. Of course schooling is not all of the essential training children are to receive, but it is one of the most important duties of parent-hood.

Those who send to the model school at the Georgia Normal this year will be furnished school books entirely free by President Guy H. Wells. Notify him of your intention, and tell him what grades your children will enter there, so that he may have all books ready for the children opening day, which will be the 19th of September, unless otherwise arranged. No tuition of any nature will be collected. Miss Katherine Parkinson, a graduate of Peabody College, will have charge of the model school. Miss Parkinson taught this summer in the practice school of Peabody College, where her work is recognized as expert in this particular line. Miss Parkinson will have charge of the primary department and will be in general control. No better teachers are available for this special teaching and the children there are to receive the best training possible.

The Georgia Normal will also furnish a full-time expert teacher to the Warnock school at no cost to the school. Miss Hill, who is an A. B. graduate, will be placed in the Warnock school this year.

TIME TO PAY UP.

Bulloch county is now in the midst of harvest time. Though the cotton crop is reported somewhat below that of the past three years, the prices are looking upward and there is a feeling of cheerfulness over that phases of the situation.

Never before has Bulloch harvested so great a crop of tobacco, and the prices are better than in years past. Genuine enthusiasm exists over the tobacco situation.

There is a bumper corn crop now reaching maturity. The watermelon crop has just ended and brought more cash per car than in many recent years.

Taking everything into consideration, our people have cause to be cheerful. It is a time to begin to pay debts.

Money in circulation creates prosperity. When one man starts a debt-paying campaign, he makes it possible for others to do the same thing. Once set in motion, money circulates like the life blood in the body. It brings life to every phase of business in a community.

And this little writing is intended as a reminder of the necessity to begin paying up. In a general sense, we would pay attention to the need to pay every debt you owe as promptly as possible.

In a personal sense, the Times wants to call attention of its patrons to their obligation to pay their subscriptions to the paper. The Times does not intend a practice to annoy its patrons in regard to money matters. It has been our habit to bear with our friends till the spirit inclined them to call in and pay up. Many of them have appreciated this leniency and have paid promptly; a good many others have intended to do so, but have delayed. It is to this class that we are making this appeal—

IT IS TIME TO PAY UP!

A play that aside from its fame as a great piece of theatrical craftsmanship, has been quoted and referred to so frequently that it is known to an enormous percentage of the world. This is a flashing drama of a dangerous woman—she is charming and fascinating to all men. This is a flashing story of England's fashionable aristocracy. Beautiful Irene Rich in beautiful gowns dashing in and out of London's most fashionable society. And also "AESOP'S FABLES" and "GUN SHY," a comedy that you'll enjoy.

See the most thrilling struggle of six men against the brute strength of a fifty-ton monster of the deep. Learn the love and hate of two brothers on the whaling ships of 1840—in the olden days to capture a whale was to become wealthy. UNPAVED ROADS IMPOSE HEAVY TAX ON PUBLIC

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 29.—If an autoist will stop to figure the difference between driving his car on paved roads as against driving it over dirt roads, he will find that not having the paved road is costing him many times his gasoline tax, according to Judge Arthur Powell, of Atlanta, who, with other prominent Georgians is advocating a system of paved roads for the state.

Judge Powell said if the autoist cannot figure the difference in driving a car over paved roads as compared with dirt roads, the U. S. Road Bureau at Washington, D. C., can give him the figures.

An automotive engineer, it was stated here, found that in one year the average automobile consumption of gasoline in North Carolina was reduced, by improved roads, from $21 to 44 cents. That made a saving of $16.75 a car.

Fuel, however, advocates of good roads claim, is only one of the various factors involved. The poor road wears out the whole car faster than the good road. The expense thus caused is far higher than most car owners suspect.

An automobile dealer in Illinois who carefully checked up the expense of operating on paved roads and dirt roads, according to an Atlanta dealer, found that the motorist saved, on an average, 2.4 cents a mile on paved roads.

Another investigator put the saving a little higher. The average may be 2.5 cents a mile. Motor trucks may save as much as 5 cents a mile on paved roads as against unpaved roads.

Judge Powell is very much in favor of the bill prepared by the state wide Citizens' Committee on Highway problems which drafted the much-discussed plan of paving the roads of the state without a bond issue and without levying additional taxes, through the use of revenue from gasoline taxes and motor vehicle taxes.

Under the plan as proposed by the committee, the state has an opportunity to get 5,000 miles of roads built and paid for without it costing the state one cent, it is shown. Debitures will be issued, said to be more salable than bonds since they are based on the income from an income-producing property—the paved roads built with their proceeds; in other words, the users of the roads will pay for them.

The Earlier the Broiler the Larger the Profits

WHAT A TWO-POUND LIVE BROILER WAS WORTH ON THE NEW YORK MARKET ON DIFFERENT DATES

Profits from broilers are determined largely by how early in the season they reach market size, according to the Sears Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. A two-pound broiler on April 1 is worth 50 per cent more than the same weight which is not ready until two months later, 75 per cent more than one three months later, and 100 per cent more than one marketed five months later on September 1. Supplies increase rapidly after June and prices fade under the heavier offerings.

Twelve weeks are sufficient to bring a chicken of the heavier breeds to two pounds. This means that chicks must be hatched by the first of February if they are to be of market weight by June to get the cream of the early high market. The general use of incubators has pushed up the hatching date on the average farm, so that it is easily within the range of possibility for farmers to have broilers ready for market in time to get some advantage of the early high prices.

Cost account records show that the largest profits are made by marketable broilers at one and a quarter to two and a quarter pounds in weight. About this weight, lower prices and increased feed costs eat up the profit. When prices are declining rapidly, it is often better to sell broilers a little lighter as the decline in price per pound will more than offset the additional weight.

Cecil Kennedy says he won't believe the word has come to the worst until they start calling them "re-pay shoppes."

Pete Donaldson says lots of people practice economy so they can save up enough to buy something they don't need.

"It's easy for the kids to tell when there's company at home," says J. E. McCroan. "They hear ma laughing at pa's jokes."

"There's mighty little sympathy in this world," asserts Allen Morris. "For the fellow who is either land poor or lodge poor."

Joe Fields says when a woman pays $2 for a pair of silk hose it is only natural that she should want to display $1.08 worth of them.

J. L. Renfro says he has observed that the man who knows all about running everybody's business knows precious little about running his own.

Albert Deal says people were more hospitable in the old days because they grew their hospitality at home. Now they order it from the grocery store.

"You can't tell anything about it," says Judge Temple. "Maybe if women knew men better there would be far more old maids than we now have."

"One never knows how many heirs an Indian has," asserts Walter McDougald, "until the white man comes along and discovers oil on his allotment."

"The old-fashioned man who never thought anything of walking eight or ten miles in an afternoon now has a grandson who doesn't do it either," says E. C. Oliver.

"If you could look thirty years ahead," says Judge Proctor, "you'd probably see some of the kids they now call 'gifted' sitting on a store box whittling a pine stick."

Low Prices Spur Cotton Consumption

CONSUMPTION AND EXPORTS OF LINT COTTON BY CROP YEARS

Domestic consumption and exports of cotton in the twelve months ending July 31, 1927, undoubtedly will establish a new high record and will practically equal the record crop produced in 1926, according to the Sears Roebuck Agricultural Foundation.

In the first nine months of the present crop year, domestic mills used 5,837,820 bales, excluding linters, against 5,945,290 bales a year previous. Consumption and exports combined accounted for 1,811,004 bales, against 1,594,888 bales a year ago. If the same percentage of gain is maintained to the end of the crop year, the total will reach 17,900,000 to 18,000,000 bales. The 1926 crop was 17,077,000 bales of lint cotton.

The increase in consumption and exports can be attributed to low prices, showing that the world anticipates a bargain in raw cotton. Foreign consumption of American cotton has not increased as much as exports. Part of the gain was for the purpose of building up stocks abroad. Foreign buyers took advantage of the opportunity to fill their warehouses while cotton was selling below the cost of production. They realized that the chances were strong to gain three large crops in succession and that cotton was not likely to continue to sell as low as during the past fall and winter. This stored cotton will complete, of course, with this year's production.

Outside the large domestic consumption and exports in recent months, the cotton situation has been strengthened by other events. Low prices prevented enough of the 1926 crop from being picked, so that only 17,911,000 bales were picked, compared with the estimated production of 18,618,000 bales. Crops in other cotton-producing countries proved to be enough smaller than in 1925 to offset much of the gain in the domestic crop. The total world crop was not much greater than in 1925. Drouth destroyed some stored cotton and forced a substantial cut in acreage. Drouth in Texas and heavy weevil emergence are other indications that production is unlikely to be excessive again this year.

An Adjustable Steering Column
to Suit Your Convenience

Buick for 1928 is extremely thoughtful of feminine comfort. One indication of this consideration is Buick's new steering column, which may be adjusted to the most comfortable position for women, as well as men.

And in addition, Buick for 1928 has a new steering wheel—slender to fit feminine fingers—yet deep and solid to provide the firm grip men demand.

Buick for 1928 pleases women because it is easier to drive—because it is more comfortable to ride in—and because it is the acknowledged style-leader among motor cars. That's why you see so many Buicks at fashionable gatherings and on the smartest boulevards.

CHEVROLET OFFICIAL
FORECASTS PROSPERITY

That business conditions generally throughout the country are exceedingly fair, with every indication that they will continue so this fall, was the keynote of a statement issued Saturday by C. F. Barth, vice-president in charge of manufacturing of the Chevrolet Motor Company. Mr. Barth's statement followed the announcement that on August 12 Chevrolet topped its entire output for 1926 by turning out the 732,147th car so far this year.

"We are looking optimistically toward the fall season," Mr. Barth declared. "There is ample evidence of country-wide prosperity. Crop conditions are considerably better than last year, diversification having aided the south and west. In the north-west alone the yield this year is expected to be substantially above the average for the past ten years. In Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana the grain crop being estimated as worth $150,000,000 more than last year."

"Other healthy signs include heavy railway shipping, which stands above the million cars weekly mark; unusually large postal receipts; exports and imports above last year's high figures, and, perhaps the best business barometer of all, dividend increases for outstanding corporations."

"The automobile, like every other staple commodity, is sensitive to any change in the economic situation. Although Chevrolet may not be considered as representative of the industry because of the phenomenal increase in our car production, all previous production figures for year shift cars, their even distribution shows that healthy conditions prevail from coast to coast and border to border. There are of course spotty areas of unemployment and depression, but they are relatively small and not of sufficient numbers to cause alarm or check the general era of good times ahead."

"We are proceeding under the heaviest production schedule in our history. Not only did we on August 12 turn out the 732,147th car so far this year and thus outstrip our entire output for 1926, but our August schedule calls for 89,474 units, an increase over January, February and July of this year and a considerable gain over August of 1926. Every month so far this year we have increased by a wide margin our own high mark for 1926."

"If the past may be used as a yardstick, we will set still more records before the close of the year. In both 1925 and 1926 our September production exceeded that of any other month in those years."

"While the total volume of automobiles manufactured during the past six months of 1927 may not exceed the output during the same period last year, when the U. S. census bureau figures show that 1,694,641 units were built from July to January, it must be remembered that last year was the most successful and remarkable in all automotive history, and that a considerable drop from last year's figures would still not mean that business was below normal."

"With so many healthy signs all pointing the same direction, there is every justification for the manufacturer of a dependable product to look confidently into the future."

RURAL MAIL BOXES SHOULD BE GROUPED AND PAINTED

Postmaster W. H. Blitch and his rural carrier force have been instructed to call the attention of their rural patrons to the importance of grouping and painting their mail boxes. These instructions are in compliance with a nationwide campaign of the postoffice department and in the interest of all parties.

By grouping rural mail boxes where there are three or four at one stop, a saving can be made in postage as two posts can be made to support four boxes if they are placed on a board extending from one post to the other. Then, too, if so placed the boxes will be at a uniform height, will look considerably better, since they are more regular in height and appearance, and easier to serve by the rural carrier. While this is being done, the nation will naturally be interested in completing the improvement he has just made and will paint his boxes and the posts they rest upon. Then he has not only prepared them for longer service, but has also made his mail box a part of his neighborhood that is not an eyesore to the passing public.

See your rural carriers and have them assist you in the grouping of your boxes. They will be glad to offer suggestions and assist you in any way possible.

ESTABLISHES FAINT TIE
WITH FAMOUS WILL ROGERS

Will Rogers, much in the public prints as a lecturer and writer, is more a philosopher than a humorist. Many daily papers throughout the nation are carrying each day brief witticisms from his pen which embody even more wisdom than wit, though they are full of both. Most newspaper readers have become familiar with Mr. Rogers' writings in the past few years, and have noted with more or less interest his advancement in the limelight.

To such, this little recital will be of some interest:

Sixty-odd years ago there came to Clearwater, Fla., from Alabama a Methodist minister named McSpadden, and with him a son, Jimmie McSpadden, then in his teens. Jimmie McSpadden was the boyhood associate of the father of the editor of the Times. For two or three years the McSpaddens lived at Clearwater, and then returned to Alabama. A short while thereafter the minister went as a missionary to the Cherokee Indians in Indian Territory, now Oklahoma. For many years a correspondence was maintained regularly between young McSpadden at Tahlequah, Indian Territory, and the father of this writer.

Three weeks ago Will Rogers was recuperating from an illness at his home in California. Writing of the joys of living, he mentioned a visit from his sister, Mrs. Tom McSpadden, of Chelsea, Okla. The name was so unusual that it impressed the Times editor as possibly being a family connection of the Jimmie McSpadden who had been the boyhood chum of the editor's father. A letter was addressed to Tom McSpadden at Chelsea and a reply was soon received. Tom McSpadden is a brother of the Jimmie McSpadden, and is himself an old man. Will Rogers had married the only sister. Jimmie McSpadden has been gone to his long home for more than twenty years. His boyhood associate, A. C. Turner, at Clearwater, Fla., now past 84 years, has found delight in reading the letter from Jimmie McSpadden's only brother.

Thus the Times editor claims to have established a tie with Will Rogers, the humorist and philosopher.

Miss Bertie Mae Lee spent last week with Thelma Wilson in Dover.

Elsewhere in this issue is a notice of a forestry meeting to be held at the court house at 10 o'clock Wednesday, September 7th. States Forester B. M. Lufburrow will be present and talk to the landowners on the subject of reforestation, particularly along the line of fire prevention. We have several landowners who are interested in organizing a forestry association, and they are very anxious to have all landowners who are interested attend this meeting.

Time to be thinking of getting your supply of vetch seed. We want to sow a good acreage to vetch and Austrian winter peas this fall, both for hay and green manure. See me about your seed before it is too late.

I would like for those who have top hogs for sale in September, and who are interested in selling them co-operatively, to see me. We should hold monthly sales this fall and winter. It is entirely up to the farmers as to whether or not co-operative sales will be held.

SAYS STATE SHOULD PAY
AMOUNTS DUE COUNTIES

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 29.—A number of Georgia editors are inclined to dispute the claims of its adherents the present "pay-as-you-go" policy of building Georgia roads is either a business-like or satisfactory plan. Attention is called to the fact by the editors that the state still owes the counties of the state approximately nineteen millions of dollars for advances in building state-aid roads which should be paid back without further delay.

"If you were in business and morally and legally owing nineteen millions of dollars that you could not pay, you would be considered a fit subject for the insane asylum at Milledgeville if you kept continually shouting from the house tops that 'we're paying as we go' when you were not only not paying but were owing $19,000,000," says the Telfair enterprise, published at MaRae.

The McRae newspaper says that Telfair county voted bonds amounting to $325,000 for paved roads and permanent bridges, $140,000 to be matched by the state and federal funds to pave the "Boe Line" and the "Jeff Davis" highway passing through Telfair county, but the promised return of funds by the state is yet far from being fulfilled.

"Georgia will never have a system of paved highways until the state is made the owner," says John H. Jones, editor of the Fort Valley Leader-Tribune and former state senator. "There are a number of counties that will be unable to pave their roads within the next hundred years unless they are given outside aid."

THE GEORGIA EDITORS

The newspaper people of Georgia, editors of the daily and weekly publications, with members of their families, to a number approximating around two hundred, are to be the guests of Statesboro in their annual convention next year.

Statesboro's invitation, extended through the Chamber of Commerce at the meeting in Louisville last week and renewed at Eatonton last week, was accepted enthusiastically and unanimously. The other towns in Georgia, or Pelham, Towns and Haverhill, made bids for the meeting. Pelham particularly put up a strenuous fight for it. Statesboro's victory, therefore, is all the more pleasing in view of the rivalry.

Georgia towns who have a reputation to be recognized as worth while consider it a pleasure to have the newspaper fraternity visit them in a body. More than any other influence in the state, the newspapers are in position to create pleasant consideration of a community and its people.

Not all newspaper men are such wonderful forces. Among them are, as in other walks of life, all classes—good, bad and indifferent—but as a class their influence ranks high.

No town in Georgia would care enough for the fraternity that it would go to great expense to entertain the editors absolutely free from self-interest. The association with new friends occasionally is delightful enough, but contact with friends, new or old, is not the sole objective in asking a representative body to come and abide with you for a time. There is something through it all the thought of fair exchange—the giving of friendship and receiving of friendship in return.

Statesboro will not only serve herself, but the entire community when she entertains the Georgia newspaper fraternity next summer. It is not going to be a job for a few people. All of Statesboro will be called upon to share in the task, and in doing so the people will be doing a service that will mean as much for themselves as for anybody else.

Fifty-two weeks is a short time. The year will roll around before you realize it. It is time right now to make up your mind to help entertain the editors and to notify the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce of your willingness to do so.

LAW HAS TRIUMPHED
The execution of the two Italians, Sacco and Vanzetti, convicted in Boston of murder and sentenced to die, which execution occurred last week, is a victory for law against anarchy.

So far as the public was concerned, there was no question as to the correctness of the verdict which decreed their death. A jury regularly chosen had proclaimed their guilt. That jury had been given every opportunity to know the facts upon which it was called to base judgment. The jury having spoken its verdict, the public had no further rights in the matter. Sympathy is always for the man overthrown in crime, and a criminal's friends are always able to rally followers who will cry against a verdict, no matter how righteous. The American system of justice has adopted the jury trial as the method of measuring out justice. The jury trying these men, regardless of their nationality, having decreed their death under due process of law, it became a matter of wide concern whether law should triumph or anarchy prevail.

The more vigorous the effort to overthrow the verdict, the greater became the nation's interest in the case. The open attempts to intimidate the courts and to defeat the law, made it the more imperative that the law should stand firm.

The public has had no special way of learning of the guilt or innocence of the condemned men. Newspaper trials are dangerous sources from which to reach verdicts. Most of the excitement over the case grew from the newspaper reports and from the determined efforts of anarchistic sympathizers of the condemned men to go behind the law. Anarchy is a dangerous influence to be permitted in any country, and it is well that the courts in this particular case were strong enough to stand against it. America is to be congratulated upon the last chapter of the Sacco-Vanzetti case. Let it be hoped that the victory may be followed by still other victories!

WATER LABORATORY SERVICE RENDERED BY BOARD OF HEALTH

Regardless of where we live, we need daily the life-giving quality of clear, pure water. The amount of drinking water required by the average healthy man is about five pints daily. A person can live very much longer without food than without water; consequently, we must have water frequently in both quantity and quality. One of the prime functions of the State Board of Health is to see that the people of the state are provided with pure drinking water. Unfortunately, with limited laboratory personnel, the service rendered must necessarily be limited, but let us be optimistic of the future.

On July 1, 1925, the urban population of the State of Georgia was estimated to be 608,500 and the rural population, 2,483,100. The total of 608,500 people living in municipalities is served by approximately 260 public water supplies, or an average of 4.85 people to a public water supply. The total of 2,483,100 living in homes with private water supplies, based on an average of five people to a home, are necessarily served by 496,620 private water supplies.

Considering the above facts, the water laboratory in order to render service to the people of the state, would have to make approximately 260 water examinations, which is almost the actual number per month; but in order to render service to the 2,483,100 people with private supplies it would necessitate 496,620 examinations per year to examine each private supply once a year, or an average of 41,885 examinations a month. Actually only about 41 private examinations are made per month, or much less than one per cent of the total. Statesboro, with its 608,500 people in municipalities have the service monthly while only approximately 260 people served by private supplies have the same service, and approximately 2,483,100 people deprived of the service, yet the laboratory with inadequate personnel is working to capacity.

Of course attention is called to the fact that in rendering this service, especially with limited personnel, it is more practical to make single examinations each service 2,483 people than single examinations each serving five people. Furthermore, the unit cost, generally speaking, of furnishing and maintaining pure water supply is less for supplies serving an average of 2,483 people than for supplies serving an average of five people. However, the fact remains that the laboratory cannot be extended as it should be to the rural population.

The State Board of Health advises that this service to whoever rendered is absolutely free, but the cost of the laboratory is increasing to such a rapid extent that if the laboratory does not make sufficient appropriation to the State Board of Health it will be necessary to charge for the examinations to derive some revenue to meet the growing demand.

What Will You Give?
It has been said: "All that a man hath will be given for his life." Judging by the appropriation made in the past to the State Board of Health, we must have a very small amount in Georgia, yet we must all acknowledge that this meager sum has accomplished wonders.

We spend $20.00 per capita for highways, $10.62 for education, $3.06 for police protection, $2.57 for fire prevention, $2.08 for charities and hospitals, $9 cents for amusements, $2.00 for tobacco, $4.00 for medical services, $3.50 for patent medicines, $1.25 for cosmetics, 50 cents for chewing gum and 3 cents for public health. THREE CENTS is not enough.

See that your family is taken care of as it should be against disease. Your State Board of Health needs you and you need your State Board. They are glad to advise with you in regard to disease prevention, furnish vaccines, etc., and you should make it your business to see that this important Board is furnished with funds to enable them to respond when you call upon them.

Our General Assembly now in session should give our State Board of Health all the funds they ask for to the end that proper health work can be done.

Disease prevention adds to a state's income. The State Board of Health contributes much to the real wealth of Georgia.

Manpower is the one essential thing in the full accomplishment of all that is desirable. Health is essential to manpower. Health-life can be bought; it is bought when proper health work is done. First, health; all else desirable is then made possible. Legislation; appropriation; sanitation; prevention. One of the surest of all the vaccines is toxin-antitoxin. This protects a child for life against diphtheria.

"Friendly Neighbor" of the Air

What to do with that little felt hat, how to cull the poultry flock when to remove the seed bed in the back-yard garden and a thousand and one similar questions are received regularly by the Home Service Division of the Sears Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. These questions, every one of them, are answered on the air and by personal letter over WSB, the Atlanta Journal, by Mrs. R. E. Vioche, Home Advisor of the Foundation. Mrs. Vioche's long service in extension work and her wide circle of acquaintances throughout the Southeast lends a personal touch to her programs, uncommon to most broadcast. This same long experience also gives an authority to her answers that goes entirely unquestioned.

The Register school will open for the term on Monday, September 12. All pupils who intend to enter are expected to be present at the opening, and patrons and friends are invited.

Miss Johnson Weds Lieutenant Daughtry at Home Ceremony

Much cordial interest surrounded the marriage of Miss Eubie Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Johnson, and Barney Daughtry, which was an interesting event of August 20th at the home of the bride's parents at Register. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. B. Joyner at noon in the presence of a few friends and relatives. The house was beautifully decorated with asparagus ferns and pink and white roses. Ferns were placed at intervals around the room. An aisle was formed by alternating pink and white flowers filled baskets which led to the improvised altar where the ceremony was performed. Prior to the ceremony, Miss Helen Jones, accompanied by Miss Elizabeth Wright, sang "At Dawning," after which the bride's father entered to the strains of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin. The bride was lovely in a traveling dress of tan crepe and white accessories to match, and her flowers were a bouquet of white roses. The bride's sister, Miss Vera Johnson, who was maid of honor, wore a dress of black satin back crepe trimmed with flesh colored georgette. Her bouquet was of pink roses. Lieutenant Daughtry had for his best man, Lieutenant Henry M. Bailey of Harlem, Ga. Immediately after the ceremony the bridal party motored to Savannah, from which point Lieutenant and Mrs. Daughtry left for New York City.

MRS. HOOK HOSTESS

Mrs. H. F. Hook entertained at bridge on Tuesday evening honoring her visitors, Misses Margaret and Elizabeth Brown and Claude Brown of Rome. Her pretty home was decorated with zinnias and other mid-summer flowers. She invited guests for seven tables and served a salad course. High score was made by Miss Lucile Beckham of Perry. She was given a set of Coty's powder and perfume. Durward Watson made high score for the men and received a cigarette holder.

D'LOACH—LOCKLIN

Of cordial interest to a wide circle of friends was the marriage of Miss Evelyn DeLoach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. H. DeLoach, of Chicago, to Mr. Lawrence K. Locklin, also of Chicago, which occurred here Saturday, August 27th, at 3:30 o'clock. The bride with her parents and other members of the family, is visiting relatives in this city for several days and the wedding took place at the pretty home of her aunt, Mrs. C. W. Ennis, on Savannah avenue. The impressive ceremony was performed by the bride's grandfather, Judge E. D. Holland. Mrs. S. Edwin Groover played the wedding march and Miss Margaret Turner sang "At Dawning." The lovely bride was beautifully gowned in black georgette trimmed in pink with a hat to match. She carried a shower bouquet of valley lilies and roses. Miss Louise DeLoach, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Mr. Harry DeLoach best man. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. C. W. BETTER WAGES FROM
BETTER MILKERS

COWS LIKE THIS PAY HIGH WAGES

COWS LIKE THIS PAY LOW WAGES

By following certain well-defined rules, any farmer can obtain good wages for taking care of milk cows, says the Sears Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. Failure to adopt the practices laid down by these rules will cause the farmer to work for very low wages and possibly nothing.

Records covering 21 farms in one county, gathered by the Minnesota College of Agriculture, showed that the wages received for the time spent on milk cows varied from as high as 77 cents per hour to as low as 7 cents. Since the farms were all in the same locality and had the same market, this variation must be attributed to differences in the methods employed.

The principal rules by which to obtain good wages for milking cows, as shown by the actual experience of many farmers, are as follows:

1. Keep cows stabled by pure-bred bulls of high producing ancestry.
2. Weed out the poor producers, as indicated by the amount of milk produced, the butter fat test, and feed record.
3. Take measures to control disease and eliminate losses from tuberculosis, abortion, paretic, etc.
4. Feed rations which are adequate with respect to protein, succulence and variety, and vary the quantity in proportion to production.
5. Supply ample pastures throughout the season.
6. Keep the expense for barns and equipment on a reasonable basis.

One of the most important factors in determining the wages received for milking cows is the rate of production per cow. An average production of 300 pounds of butter fat is a reasonable goal. In some fluid milk districts, it has been found that dairymen whose cows produce less than 3,000 pounds a year stood little chance of making a profit. A farmer who keeps average cows producing only 140 to 165 pounds of butter fat a year can not expect to receive good wages for taking care of them.

The State Board of Health offers free Toxin-Antitoxin to each county in Georgia for immunizing the pre-school children against diphtheria under certain restrictions. Write them about it.

The pre-school child is an important citizen; he should have our best attention. Early physical examination and proper treatment of defects and abnormalities should receive prompt attention.

In counties having a full-time Commissioner of Health typhoid has been reduced 15 per cent in the last few years, while counties without health officers dropped only 3 per cent.

The last congress repealed the Maternity and Infant Hygiene Act, from which Georgia has received $24,000 each year. Will this important work be continued?

We pay insurance companies premiums, so that after death loved ones may collect. Why not invest some money in health insurance and postpone the death certificate collection?

Now is the time to give the baby Toxin-Antitoxin. Why another death from diphtheria? Toxin-Antitoxin prevents this disease.

Toxin-Antitoxin can be obtained free if clinics are formed and application made to the State Board of Health prior to September 1st.

Money plus science equals life extension if the money is appropriated to our State Board of Health.

CHEVROLET LEADS IN SALES IN DETROIT

Figures just released show that for the seventh consecutive month Chevrolet registrations have led every other single make of car in Wayne county, Mich., in which Detroit is the leading center.

During July just ended Chevrolet not only topped every other make of car by registering 935 passenger models, but also led the list of truck registrations with 106 commercial cars, an increase of more than 100 per cent. over Chevrolet's own high mark in July, 1926.

Commenting on these records, R. H. Grant, vice-president in charge of sales, declared that "Chevrolet's consistent leadership is a definite tribute to the public's utter confidence in and appreciation for our cars."

"It is especially significant that Wayne county should show this overwhelming preference for Chevrolets. Wayne county is the center of the industry. The people here live on and work in the automobile factories. They are motor wise. They do not put their stamp of approval on a car unless they believe that it represents the utmost in motor car values."

Chevrolet factories, Mr. Grant said, are continuing their record-setting pace by turning out more than 5,500 units daily, so fast that by the middle of August the entire output for 1926 was expected to be passed.

CARAVAN OF TRUCKS IS COMING TO STATESBORO

GENERAL MOTORS COMPANY WILL HAVE INTERESTING DISPLAY HERE NEXT WEEK.

As part of one of the most comprehensive and constructive national programs ever undertaken in this field, a caravan of General Motors trucks will be in Statesboro next Thursday. Headquarters will be maintained at the Jax Hotel, with Reynolds Lane, district representative of the General Motors Truck Co., in charge of the caravan.

This was the information given to a representative of the Bulloch Times by Paul J. Feely, special representative of the General Motors Truck Co., of Detroit, who arrived here in advance of the caravan. He is accompanied by L. D. Stapleton, manager of the factory's branch in Atlanta. Either they or Mr. Lane plan to appoint a dealer to handle the GMC line here before the caravan departs.

Included in the caravan are the one and two-ton models of this company, which were just announced. They are powered with the famous Buick six-cylinder engine, and are designed to meet the needs of the present fast and economical commercial transportation.

In leaving Atlanta for this tour, which will take them all over Georgia as part of a national tour sponsored by General Motors, the caravan was reviewed by many prominent persons, who expressed their interest and approval of such a constructive campaign, which has for a major object the promotion of a better system of highways and the stimulation of business generally.

Mr. Stapleton, who is a sales and advertising authority, presents an interesting analysis of present day conditions in which modern motor transportation is rapidly spreading its influence on rural life. A realization of the increasing importance of the necessity for quicker, more efficient and safer commercial transportation is rapidly spreading its influence on rural life.
